Chapp, Smock, Hulbert Callewaert, Riley Elected

The Crawford County Board of Commissioners will begin 1991 with five new commissioners. Voters returned only two incumbent candidates to the board in Tuesday's general election.

In District 3, Lee Riley defeated incumbent Robert E. Nelson by 30 votes, 256 to 226.

Democrat Robert Smock, Jr. took the District 5 commission seat from incumbent William Ruddy, 249 to 219.

Joseph Callewaert was the only incumbent candidate to win a contested race. He retained his District 4 seat by defeating Lawrence Mattis, 294 to 251.

Brian Hulbert won the commission's District 6 seat by defeating Larkin Baker, 179 to 128.

Loren Goodale, who was selected by the Crawford County Republican Committee last week to replace Mary E. Harland when she vacated the District 2 position, received 231 votes.

Barbara Clark, a write-in candidate, received 39 votes.

Dennis Long ran unopposed in District 1 and received 295 votes. Robert McLachlan, District 7, was also unopposed, receiving 494 votes.

Kenneth Chapp was elected to the Crawford County Road Commission, defeating long-time commissioner, Gloria Kraus, 1758 to 1426.

In state races, John Engler was leading Gov. James Blanchard with 55 percent of the votes at 11:30 p.m., press time. William Schuette conceded his bid for the U.S. Senate seat held for the past twelve years by Democrat Carl Levin at about 9 p.m.

Thirty-eight percent or 3,311 voters turned-out in the cold and snow to cast their ballots Tuesday. Last August only 17 percent of the county's approximate 8,800 registered voters chose to cast their ballots in the Primary Election.

Local United Way Auction Raises More Than $15,000

Bidders spent more than $15,000 in purchasing items at the United Way Auction held Saturday evening at the K of C Hall in Grayling.

Celebrity auctioneers raised over $5,000 for such items as a mystery car, live llama, trip to Mackinac Island, a hayride, financial package, Garland golf outing, pen and ink sketch, and a performance by the Dixieland Band. More than 120 items were sold to the highest bidder during the live auction, and another 100 items were featured in the silent auction. Local merchants donated 70 gifts and gift certificates for the grand prize board. All these efforts attributed to the huge success of the auction which raised over $15,000 for United Way.

Many commercial businesses and individuals donated items to the auction. Co-chairpersons of the auction, Gloria Kraus and Maureen McNamara, were pleased with the results. Although final figures were unavailable at press time, the goal of $13,000 was far surpassed, said Mrs. McNamara.

Prior to the auction on Saturday evening, the 1990 United Way Campaign had reached 52 percent of its $56,000 goal. Most of the divisions are well ahead of their projected goals, such as Weyerhaeuser Company which has raised $11,160 as compared to their goal of $10,000. The industrial division has contributed $2,450 and the financial division has donated $2,530. Mercy Hospital/Grayling has set its goal at $3,500 this year.

Most of the monies raised during the United Way Campaign come from employees at the various businesses in Crawford County, who oftentimes make pledges based on payroll deduction. If you are retired or have not been approached to give to United Way, you can make a direct donation by mailing your check to: Crawford County United Way, PO Box 171, Grayling, MI, 49738.

WINTER ALREADY?--Crawford County residents awoke Monday morning to find that while they were sleeping, "Old Man Winter" had paid them an early visit. Before the snow storm ended, between nine and twelve inches of heavy wet snow covered the ground causing slippery roads and electrical power outages.

News Briefs

Heavy Snow Leads To 15 Accidents

Crawford County received nine to twelve inches of heavy wet snow on Monday, November 5, making county roads extremely slippery and contributing to 15 automobile accidents.

Crawford County Sheriff deputies responded to the rash of accidents from about 7 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. They also assisted several motorists who lost control of their vehicles and wound up in the ditch. Most accidents were limited to property damage and resulted in only minor injuries.

Area schools closed early Monday afternoon because of deteriorating road conditions and classes were cancelled all day Tuesday.

Branches of evergreen and even bare leafy trees hung low because of the weight of the snow. Broken branches and jack pine tree tops littered the ground.

Electrical power outages were reported throughout the county. Some residents were without power from about 2 p.m. on Monday until late Tuesday.

The Crawford County Sheriff Dept. reminds motorists that they can no longer drive like they did in July. Along with changing weather conditions, driving habits should be adjusted to weather conditions and seat belts should be worn at all times.

Local Clubs Donate $45,300 For New Fields

Construction of a new baseball field and two regulation soccer fields has begun at the Crawford County Fairgrounds on Old 27 north of Grayling. Two Grayling civic organizations will be providing the $45,300 needed for field construction.

The Grayling Youth Boosters and Rotary clubs each donated $22,650 towards the construction of the three athletic fields. Weyerhaeuser Structurwood will be donating $4,000 for topsoil.

Rotary president Joseph Newman said their contribution is the largest community service donation they have made with the possible exception of the museum. With only one Little League field and no official size soccer fields, Newman said the project is certainly needed by the children of the community.

Willis said lack of money has prevented MDOT from improving traffic control in Grayling's Business Loop, but about six months ago the department found some extra money and the Grayling project took off.

He said construction plans have progressed quickly and he apologized that area business owners were not consulted on the design.

"You're right," he said. "The design isn't perfect, but even if you had been given an opportunity to comment on the project," he continued, "I don't think the design would be much different than what you are looking at today."

Willis said he would have liked a storm drainage system included in the project's plans. He said the area already has a serious problem with water drainage and with only a ditch between the two roads to handle run-off water, the new road project could add to that problem.

"The K Mart has about an acre lake in its parking lot following a rain storm," he said, "and it isn't much better across the street."

Unfortunately, Willis said a drainage system would cost approximately $300,000 more than what is currently available.

The group asked if the present plan could be redesigned and learned this was impossible because the bids on the project have already been let.

Representatives from Hardee's came from Wisconsin to attend the meeting. They advocated mounting an effort to stop the project until a new plan could be designed that met the needs of the area's businesses.

The new design will eliminate the two crossovers to Hardee's necessitating southbound travelers to pass their restaurant, turn at the last crossover before entering I-75 and back track on the northbound lane about 800 feet.

"This design might be safer for traffic," said one Hardee's representative, "but it sure isn't good for business." He said if Hardee's had known about the proposed changes to the loop before they built, they would not have selected their present location.

Hardee's representatives favored four lanes with a fifth center crossing lane, similar to Gaylord's Old 27 and M-

"It's an investment in kids," he said, "and we feel that is the best investment we can make."

Newman said the project supports the community's Little League, 4-H Soccer and County Fair programs.

The two soccer fields should be ready for the fall, 1991, season and the Little League baseball field will be ready in the spring of 1992.

Construction of the fields has already begun with the clearing and leveling of land by Welded Construction as part of their rental agreement with the Crawford County Fair Board. Sprinkler systems are scheduled for installation yet this fall along with the spreading of topsoil.

Marvin Myers of Myers Land Surveying laid out the fields and Greg Nelson of Signature Landscaping is the general contractor for development of the fields.

Seeding of the fields will begin in the spring.

The fields will be protected by a chain link fence that will be installed as soon as possible.

Little League and 4-H Soccer clubs will be responsible for construction of dug-outs, bleachers, concession stands, and field goals as well as maintenance of the fields.

Overall control of the fields will remain under authority of the Crawford County Fair Board.

Last summer the Little League program included eight minor league teams and six major league teams. With only one field, Millikin Field, the program had to limit the number of teams and the number of children who could participate in

Business Loop Changes Scheduled For 1991

By Irene Pettyjohn

An unhappy group of I-75 Business Loop business owners met with two representatives of the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) last Friday morning at the Grayling Holiday Inn to discuss the proposed changes in the I-75 Business Loop.

The group requested the meeting to find out why they had not been given an opportunity to comment on the project's design before the plan was finished and the bids let.

Robert Willis, project engineer, told those present that MDOT had held three public meetings over the past two years to discuss future improvements. He said the first meeting was announced in the Crawford County Avalanche and that city manager, Jerry Morford, was to get the word out about the second and third meetings.

All but one business owner said they had not been notified of the public meetings.

Morford, who was not present, later stated that he would not take responsibility for MDOT's failure to publicize its meetings.

"I wasn't even kept informed," he said. "I didn't know the bids on the project had been let," he continued, "and I didn't know about Friday's meeting until I read about it in the Avalanche."

Drawings of the proposed changes were presented and Willis explained the various changes. These changes include eliminating the present eight crossover pads between the north and southbound lanes and constructing five new ones. Three of these will be double one-way crossovers. Storage lanes will be built leading up to the crossovers that will accommodate five to eight vehicles. The new crossovers will not be located directly across from business driveways, as they are now, to eliminate drivers pulling out across two lanes of traffic into the crossover. During peak traffic seasons these crossovers become so congested that cars often stick out into the road, blocking oncoming traffic.

Curbs will be placed along the left turn storage lanes and bordering the crossovers. All drives on the east side of the loop will be rebuilt and existing curbs will be replaced.

Total cost of the proposed project is $761,453. Construction is scheduled to begin in March, 1991, and be completed sometime in August.

Willis said lack of money has prevented MDOT from improving traffic control in Grayling's Business Loop, but about six months ago the department found some extra money and the Grayling project took off.

He said construction plans have progressed quickly and he apologized that area business owners were not consulted on the design.

Hardee's representatives favored four lanes with a fifth center crossing lane, similar to Gaylord's Old 27 and M-32 business sections.

District traffic engineer, Wayne Gunderman, said Gaylord's five lane M-32 stretch has one of the highest accident rates in the district.

Gunderman said traffic has increased in the Grayling area more than any other area in northeast Michigan. He said the proposed plan will provide an attractive solution to the Business Loop's traffic problems.

He cautioned against stopping the project, saying a new design will take a minimum of one year to complete with no guarantee that there will be money for the new project. He said it could take four years before the project gets back to where it is now.

Two car thefts and a large breaking and entering brought the total of city's Stolen Property Value to $21,229.23 for the week.

Grayling City officers responded to two stolen car complaints last week. On October 29 a 1985 Chevy Blazer owned by Larry McNamara was reported missing. The vehicle was parked in front of the McNamara home at 7 p.m. the preceding night and was missing at 7 a.m. Tuesday morning. An inmate at Camp Lehigh escaped that same night and police suspect he might have a connection with the missing vehicle. The vehicle was valued at approximately $12,000.

James Dannenberg reported his truck missing on November 4. It had a value of about $5,000.

Equipment valued at approximately $3,300 was taken during a breaking and entering of a garage at 609 Plum Street. The remaining loss consisted of several smaller losses.

In addition to the three Devil's Night arsons covered in a different story, city patrolmen responded to about a dozen more complaints of malicious destruction of property complaints both Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

The first substantial snowfall of the season resulted in 15 accidents between 7 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. with numerous other vehicles in the ditch. Most of the accidents were property damage only and any injuries sustained were minor. Sheriff deputies were assisted at the scene of several of the accidents by Grayling City Police officers. The department reminds motorists to adjust their driving habits to weather conditions and that seat belts should be worn at all times.

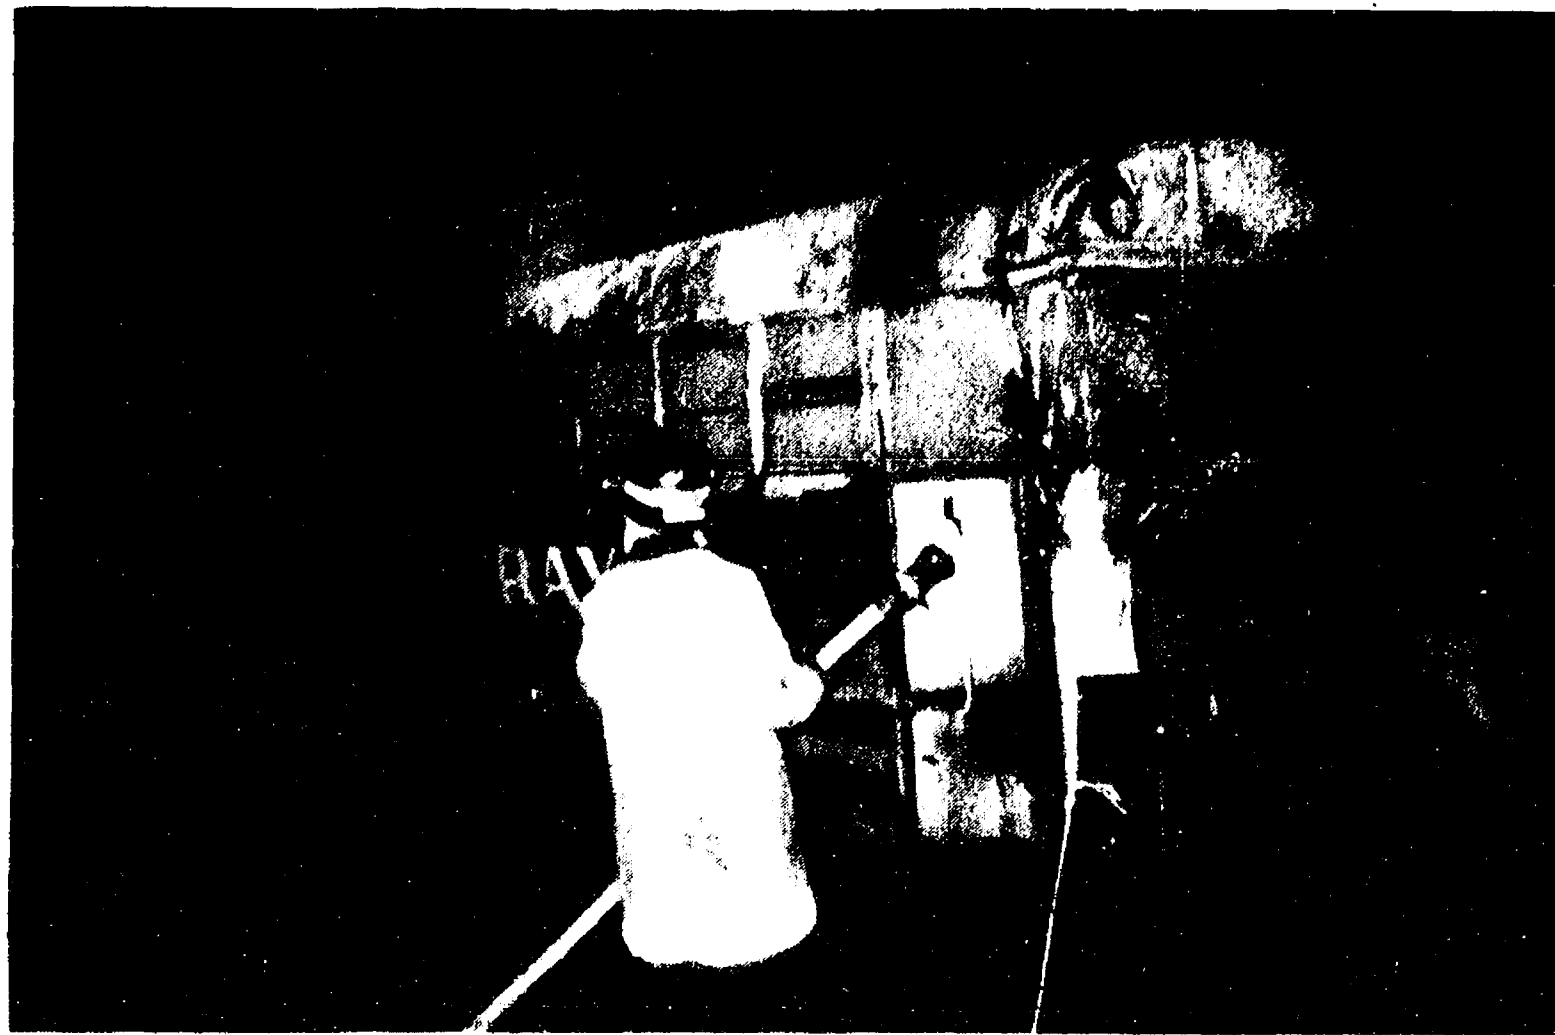

High School Hosts Blood Drive Nov. 7

There will be a Crawford County American Red Cross, High School, and Community Blood Drive on Wednesday, November 7, from 9 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. in the high school gym.

Due to the half day of school, the students will be donating in the morning. It is suggested that the community donors come in the afternoon, if possible. However, if that is not convenient, please come at anytime.

Only four out of 100 adults donate blood in this county per year. Every pint of blood can help from one to four people.

He also said if the project proceeds as planned, MDOT will expect it to last for about 15 years.

One of the more controversial changes in the proposed plan is a crossover located at the base of the entrance into Grayling from I-75.

"Traffic is traveling about 65 miles per hour at that point," said one owner. "You can't think that is a safe location for cars to be trying to merge into traffic."

Ron Fraser, owner of the Holiday Inn, called the proposed changes imperfect, but said it was better than the present system which he likened to a Chinese fire drill. He has known about the project for about two years.

Fraser said if the proposed changes will make it safer for his customers, it will ultimately be good for business.

Glen's Market manager Fred Armstrong said there is an automobile accident in front of Glen's nearly every week.

Another representative of Glen's Market from Gaylord said he was opposed to the proposed project when he arrived at the meeting, but by the end of the meeting had changed his mind. He said he could not support the fifth crossing lane plan because of his experience at Glen's in Gaylord.

"Gaylord's five lanes on M-32 is a nightmare at 5 p.m.," he said. "Glen's would be in trouble if it didn't have two side entrances." He said Glen's has hired an engineering consulting firm to look into ways of improving their M-32 entrance.

Grayling State Bank CEO Richard Albee said some traffic pressure could be eliminated from the business loop with the construction of a four-way exit/entrance network at North Down River Road. He asked the loop business owners to support the Chamber of Commerce's effort to gain support for the second entrance into Grayling.

Grayling Chamber of Commerce director Deb Allen suggested business loop owners meet early in December to discuss what action should be taken regarding MDOT's proposed construction project. She said a vote could be taken at the conclusion of the meeting. The chamber's position on the proposed project would be based on the outcome of this vote.

Allen encouraged citizens concerned about the construction project to contact members of the Grayling City Council or Jerry Morford.

MDOT will also be holding another public hearing later this year or early next year to explain how the department intends to maintain traffic and access to the area's businesses.

Devil's Night Hits Grayling

"Devil's Night" pranksters in Grayling went beyond window soaping and egg throwing, usually associated with Halloween eve, when several incidences of arson and maliciously destroyed private property occurred.

The first fire was reported at about 1 a.m., Wednesday, October 31, at Ingham and Spruce streets. Arriving at the scene, the city patrolman found a bus, owned by Ray's Canoe Livery, engulfed in flames. Firemen from the Grayling City and Township Fire Dept. extinguished the blaze, but the bus was a total loss. Damage was estimated at between $2,500 and $3,000.

About the same time, reports of two more fires were received. A Halloween display at a residence on the corner of Openaw and Spruce streets had been set afire and a pile of building materials had been ignited on Alger Street.

"We read about these actions and think they only occur in the larger metropolitan areas," said Chief of Police, Peter Stephan. "However, as evidenced by these circumstances, this community has its share of sick individuals also."

Chief Stephan said the Grayling City Police Dept., in conjunction with the fire dept., are pursuing a criminal arson investigation. He said he hopes criminal charges will result.

Earlier in the evening, several groups of young adults between 15-24 years of age, were apprehended in the process of staging various acts of vandalism. Complaints were received about pumpkins being smashed in city streets, vehicle window soappings, and the pouring of syrup and pancake flour over vehicles surfaces.

City patrolmen stopped and searched vehicles throughout the evening in an attempt to curb the vandalism. Patrol units from the Crawford County Sheriff Dept. assisted with the complaints.

order to be able schedule games and insure that each player could play every game.

Some children had to be cut from the program.

"Because of the lack of space it was difficult to schedule practice times," said Little League president, Jim Tobin. "Now that we have a second field, we are planning to start three or four girls fast pitch softball teams for the summer, 1991."

Tobin said he could not say enough about the Grayling Booster Club.

"Without them this program wouldn't be a reality," he said. "They are always there to help us along."

Tobin said the Little League program is also planning to build a minor league field on the Millikin Field property adjacent to the present field. Construction should begin in the spring, 1991. When completed, major and minor league games could be played at the same time.

Alton Davis, vice president of the fair board, said the three fields will be enjoyed by about 300 Little Leaguers during the summer and 300 children involved in 4-H soccer in the fall.

"The Fair Board is delighted to be able to make space available for what we view to a very beneficial program for the youth of this community," he said. "And we are very appreciative of the great support of these two service organizations for making this program a reality."

"And not one nickel of tax money was used to finance any of this project," concluded Davis.

ATHLETIC FIELDS—Grayling Youth Booster Club president Tom Coors and Rotary president Joseph Newman are shown presenting checks totalling $45,300 to Crawford County Fair Board (CCFB) president John Naour. Northern Views

Under candlelight during a power outage Monday night caused by our friendly November storm, here's a few tips I've figured out to help Avalanche readers cope with the loss of electricity.

1. Before your power goes off, draw water into the bathtub to use later to flush the commode. But post "Do Not Drink" signs near it for your dog. Our dog was so thirsty from the dry heat of wood stove, she hunted out this water and slurped up two gallons of it.

2. Before you lose your power (it's a guessing game, folks, trying to predict when the power goes off — but your guess is probably as accurate as Blizzard Bill Spencer's is concerning when a big storm is going to hit) put at least a gallon of drinking water in the refrigerator. Then, after the power's been gone for two days and you're powerfully thirsty, this is the water your children will clean their paint brushes in.

3. Keep frozen gallon jugs of water in your freezer. After the electricity is off, they will help maintain cold temperatures in your freezer a long time or until your children remove them to use as bowling pins.

4. Buy plenty of candles. They're cheap and you'd be surprised how half a dozen will light up a basement where you're cleaning up blood from thawed meat after the kids took the frozen water jugs from the freezer.

5. Buy extra batteries for flashlights. Store them next to the candles because you'll be using candlelight to replace the dead batteries in the flashlights used up by the children on Halloween.

6. Hide the children's science books during power outages. Too many simple experiments such as finding the combustion point of a water balloon can be conducted with a burning candle.

7. Don't try melting snow for water unless absolutely desperate. This gives the children too many ideas for future trouble.

8. Many homes have a wood stove or fireplace to use when the power cuts off your main heating source. Close off as many rooms as possible away from wood stove or fireplace to keep your main room warm. This also keeps the children within your detection zone. Otherwise, instead of being happy when the power returns, you'll sadly discover how the children were melting snow in those dark rooms.

9. Keep one battery powered clock in the house. This will keep school-age children happy all day long as they tell you, "Ha ha, it's 9:37. I'm supposed to be in math class but there's no school. Ha ha"

10. This is the most important tip of all. Before the power returns, tell the children stories about the old days when you hauled water from the river one mile away (or was it two miles?), walked to school two miles (one way), and went without electricity during one snowstorm that dumped 14 feet of snow on us. (The blizzard of 1888 — or was it the blizzard of 1988? I can't remember which.) At least with the VCR and cable television off, they'll hear you saying something. Whether they believe you depends on your ability to snow people — you know, the ability Blizzard Bill uses when giving out weather reports.

Writer Questions Michigan School Health Model

Dear Sir:

Earlier this month I attended an Administrative Review Meeting regarding the Michigan Model For School Health. This meeting was hosted by the Cheboygan-Otsego-Presque Isle Intermediate School District for school administrators throughout Northern Michigan. One of the speakers was an articulate young man that the State Department of Education hired several months ago to handle public relation problems. His main function seems to be to travel throughout the state to sell the Model to schools that do not have it and to encourage those who do have it, to keep it regardless of public opinion.

He began by saying that there is an "organized move to destroy the Model" by a "radical fringe element" which "frequently uses half-truths and often out-right lies." He then used several overhead projections to describe "them." These included: "Characteristics of Extremists," "Tactics Used by Extremists," and "Guidelines for Dealing with Extremists." School Board members were told, "Try not to be intimidated . . . don't sacrifice the Model to the opposition" insinuating that those Boards that had not yet implemented the Model were negligent. It is my opinion, shared by a large majority of the people in the Mio-AuSable School District, that our Board acted with integrity and good sense in responding to their constituents who felt that this program was unacceptable in our schools for our children.

The idea of a well-organized opposition was amusing. Here before us stood a well-trained, well-paid person employed by the largest network in the state, following an itinerary taking him throughout Michigan, speaking at well-organized meetings with select people. In fact several of the descriptive terms he applied to "extremists" took on flesh throughout the day in the persons of the presenters. It puts one in mind of George Orwell's double-speak—control the people's thoughts by controlling their language.

There are dozens of communities throughout Michigan where concerned people are working to get this Model out of their school system. In most communities people were unaware of this program being brought into their schools. These people are sound, sane, sensible, caring, intelligent, hard-working people. They are educators, law-enforcement officers, accountants, homemakers, clergymen, nurses, doctors, etc. They have reviewed and researched the program and concluded that they do not want it presented to their children. These people are not the wild-eyed fanatics the Dept. of Education would have us believe.

Whatever happened to local control? If this program is so great, why all the controversy? Why the hard sell? I, for one, sincerely regret that the "opposition" is not organized. Finances and time are the obstacles to opposition which must pay for everything out of their own pockets and take time out of their already busy schedules. I wish we would hire a public relations person and have our tax dollars working for us instead of against us. It would be very nice meeting at posh resorts and paying people to come to our meetings.

This is not an issue of a health curriculum. No caring, intelligent person is against good health. However, our children are our most precious resource and we cannot risk harming them with poor programs.

We can be thankful that our school board listened to the people the first time the Michigan Model was presented to them and they decided to take a closer look at it. Many schools have the Michigan Model because parents weren't informed. Become informed and get involved. Let your school board members know that you want the best for your kids.

Reader Encountered High Level Of Civic Responsibility Here

To the Editor:

Four years ago I moved my business to Grayling and bought my home in the woods. I knew all about the beauty of our rivers and the thrill of living only a mile from the Mid-Michigan Shore to Shore Horse Trail. What I didn't know about was the high level of civic responsibility I encountered almost immediately. I was welcomed, invited to join civic organizations, my opinions were listened to, and my business is much more successful here than it was "down state."

I have been here only a short time, but consider myself enough of a "local" to be livid at the comments by Linda Caswell concerning the "quality of the people who live here." I could be wrong, but never have I encountered Ms. Caswell at any charitable fund raiser, nor any service-related organization. Never have I heard her utter a positive comment — her main concern seems to be her own back yard.

Those of us who live and earn our living in the Grayling area — a group which does not include Ms. Caswell — set our goals for the perfect balance of pristine natural beauty and economic survival. This is never easy, but with the commitment of what I know to be a community of quality people working together, we're getting closer all the time.

Saving Planet Earth

By Carol Wakeley

The Yellowstone Wolf Recovery Project is a very controversial issue. Those that oppose it are not concerned with the welfare of the wolf and think of them as evil. Many people out west have bumper stickers that read "DID A WOLF GET YOUR DEER?" Sticking the wolf means losing an important part of the ecosystem. However, most people don't see it that way. The wolf is a threat, and they wouldn't hesitate in killing it if it strayed from the park.

Any wolves that remain today are either endangered (as the wolves in Isle Royale in Lake Superior), or threatened (as in the wolves in northern Minnesota). The ecological role of the wolf is to be the top predator of the large hoofed animals. No other animal comes close to doing this. The wolf leads a harsh life as being the top predator. It requires five to twelve pounds of meat per day, and to get this the wolf must hunt day and night. It suffers many injuries while hunting and makes several unsuccessful attempts for each kill. A wolf has to cleverly work a herd to bring a member of it down. Popular opinion is that the wolf is cruel because it wounds the animal first before killing it, but it has to otherwise it would be killed. It is really no different than a bird eating a bug or a cat killing a mouse. This is what keeps the balance in nature. Wolves do not kill for the heck of it. They usually take the sick, elderly or calves. There are still those that will say a hunter "harvests" and the wolf "slaughters."

Yellowstone's plentiful prey, water, and sandy soil (easy for digging dens), make it a great habitat for the wolf. Biologists feel the wolf is badly needed at Yellowstone to help restore the balance. Herds of various hoofed animals are over grazing and destroying the range. At the turn of the century Yellowstone had only 20-50 buffalo. Today there are 2,644. The public felt they were poor defenseless creatures and the wolf was a blood-thirsty animal. Today, the people are realizing that the wolf can keep the buffalo population balanced without harming the herds. The grizzlies in Yellowstone are too slow to get elk on their own. They will find the extra nourishment they need from the leftovers of the wolf killing.

On Isle Royale wolves are responsible for 6% of deaths in herds of hoofed animals. When the wolves are removed the same number still die, but it is due to disease. This shows that wolves benefit herds, not harm them. Of the four species in Yellowstone that are threatened or endangered (the peregrine falcon, whooping crane, grizzly, and wolf), the wolf is the only one that is not being restored. The people in the Western states do not want the wolf back in Yellowstone because of their livestock and game which they make their living at. They are afraid that once the wolf wanders outside the park, their stocks will be in danger. However there are solutions for stockgrowers. In a study of 12,000 farms with livestock, only 40 accounts of predation occurred. The stockgrowers were reimbursed by the state for the animals killed and game officers did away with only the aggressive, problem wolves. There are also ways farmers can "wolfproof" their stocks with different fencing and shelters.

If the wolf population should become too well established in Yellowstone, there would be a decline in game. It seems that this would be the right time to make a "hunting season" for wolves. Maybe by doing this people would value the wolf and not treat it as a nuisance. But no matter what happens, I feel there will always be a negative thinking when it comes to the wolf. They are called cowards because they run from man and are fearful when caught. This however is intelligence. They know that attacking man is not going to do them any good. They evoke anger in us because they are so smart and independent. You just can't domesticate them. And what most people don't know is that there has never been an attack on a humans by a non-rabid wolf. More people are attacked and even killed by dogs.

Wolves have strong family bonds. There is much social and disciplinary action within a pack. The pups are top priority to all members of the pack because their survival is essential to the rest of the pack. The howl of the wolf is a warning to strange wolves and to help pack members locate one another. This howling is the only way people will know there are wolves in Yellowstone. It may be nice to hear once more the howl of the wolf in Yellowstone. And to know that the original ecosystem will return.

Almanack

By Richard Millman

Cost of politics creates dangers

THE COST OF RUNNING for public office is going higher and higher. More and more voters are becoming concerned by the escalation. Some office holders are, too.

A look at this year's U.S. Senate race in Michigan is instructive.

Through Sept. 30, the Democratic incumbent, Sen. Carl Levin, seeking his third term, had raised nearly 6.3 million, and had spent more than $4.7 million. If even the casual television watcher has noticed a glut of pro-Levin TV ads lately, that's why.

How about his opponent, Republican Rep. Bill Schuette? By Levin standards, the Schuette campaign is near pauper's level. As of Sept. 30, Mr. Schuette had raised a "mere" 2.3 million, and had "only" spent 1.9 million.

These figures — taken from the financial campaign reports required by the Federal Election Commission — don't cover what parties and other support groups may have done on their own for their favorites, either.

With still more than 30 days to go before the election, the amount of money spent on this one race in this one state borders the scandalous.

EVEN SO, THE SPENDING are not out of line with what's going on in other states. By some standards, the race in Michigan is even modest.

The red-hot senatorial race in North Carolina between incumbent Republican Sen. Jesse Helms and challenger Democrat Harvey Gantt will cost more, for one example. In California, where everything is on the grand scale, statewide politics also is vastly more expensive.

That anybody should feel compelled to spend so much money to win the privilege of serving in government is a sad commentary.

Even more concern should arise about where the money comes from, and why.

Using the Michigan senate race as an example again. . . Mr. Levin by September 30 had raised $4.5 million from individuals and another $1.2 million from political action committees, with the final near $300,000 coming from other sources, such as political party committees.

Many of these donations come because Mr. Levin is a sitting senator, and most likely will win re-election. It's much more difficult for a challenger, such as Mr. Schuette, to attract that many contributions, despite Mr. Schuette's own incumbency in the U.S. House. His campaign gift list reflects these truths.

ARE ALL THE INDIVIDUALS who donated the $4.5 million to Mr. Levin, and all the political action committees who kicked in another $1.2 million, primarily interested in good government? Are they all contributing just because they think Carl Levin is a good guy? That's highly unlikely.

The stakes are high in big government these days, and they're high in top-level politics, too.

Charles Keating, the key figure in the saving and loan scandal, when asked if his industry's contributions to political candidates provided any influence with them, is reported to have replied: "I certainly hope so."

With some politicians, they probably did; with others, they probably did not.

Considering the vast amounts of money involved, and the integral role played in modern competitive politics by high-rolling individuals and interest groups, and by fund-dispensing political action committees, the wonder is that politics is as clean as it appears to be.

NUTS AND JOLTS — Some column-closing thoughts from Hod Shewell:

—Metabolism is something that usually doesn't function too well after it has functioned too long.

—After a Little League game, it's Mom who's batting clean-up.

Let's Talk About It By Joe Murphy

Of all the gifts God had given man, I feel the ability to give and receive friendship is one of the most important. What a dull world this would be without those wonderful people we call friends. Some times we meet a friend and there is only time for a word and smile, still we feel better for it. When there is time to have a cup of coffee and a talk it can make the gloomiest day seem brighter. When the pressures of life seem to be getting out of hand, a friend's care and concern can bring things back into perspective. The need for friendship and companionship goes quite a ways down in the animal chain. Even small children feel the need of making friends. I spend quite a bit of time in Dawson's and I am always delighted to see two children about two or three years old going through the rituals of making friends. First the shy looks, then the hesitant steps of approach, holding out something little for the other to look at, then trotting off together to explore the wonder of their brand new world. If you have not seen them go through their little rituals you have missed a very wonderful experience. There seems to be some folks that have trouble making friends, perhaps they did not get a chance to practice the rituals of the very young.

Let's say the Can't Hardly Manufacturing Company has a problem, they have signed contracts to supply more products than they can produce. Well, that is if they do business as they have in the past. The Company has always had the policy of closing down for three months of the year. Now facing the problem of increasing production their first thought was to build a larger plant and hire more employees. They knew their employees were used to that long vacation and would be real angry if they had to work full time.

However, when they took their plans for a larger plant and more employees to the stockholders meeting they ran into problems. The stockholders were a bunch of hard heads who thought it was time to change company policy. Why build a bigger plant when the one they have sits vacant three months of the year? Why can't it keep going the same as every other company. By better utilizing what they already have they can meet their contracts without all that added expense. The company management was appalled, the employees will never stand for that they cried. One old man who had been a company stockholder for a long time stood up and spoke. "When this company was started most of our employees lived on farms and we adopted the policy of shutting down in the summer so they could work their farms. I don't believe any of our employees today are farmers, I too would like those long vacations and if the plant was better utilized and expenses cut, I could afford to take a day off now and then."

2 Social Workers Join Youth Service Bureau

The AuSable Valley Youth Service Bureau has announced the addition of two new social workers to the agency staff.

Tracy Laver is a graduate of Northern Michigan University in Marquette. Tracy has a Bachelor of Science Degree in Health Education and she has completed her internships at Westwood and Ishpeming High Schools. Tracy has extensive background experience in the area of alcohol and substance abuse prevention work. Tracy has been a member of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) at Northern Michigan University and she helped to found the SADD chapter at St. Ignace High School while she was a student there. After 14 years as a resident of the Upper Peninsula, Tracy proudly claims to be a "Yooper." Tracy enjoys working with children and she has interests in education, social work, and the health science field. Tracy will be assigned to her new duties within Crawford County.

Bridget Jonkis, who will be assigned to the Roscommon County area, is a former resident of Houghton Lake. Bridget returns to our area from Bay City. Bridget completed her internship as a social worker with the Bangor Township School system and has volunteered her time with the Bay County Department of Social Services. Prior to accepting her position with the Youth Service Bureau, Bridget was involved with an effort to establish a rescue mission in the Bay City area to work in cooperation with local social welfare agencies to meet the short and long term needs of the homeless. Bridget enjoys working with adolescent youth and she is pleased to return to Houghton

Lake where much of her family resides.

Both Bridget and Tracy started their service with the AuSable Valley Youth Service Bureau on October first. Bridget and Tracy will occupy the social work position vacated by Amy Pardike and Sandy Altman. Amy has recently married and re-located in the Rogers City area. Sandy has accepted a position with the New Life Community Service Agency in Grayling.

WIF Plans Christmas Events

Workers In Frederic meet every first and third Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Fire Dept. The group is looking forward to meeting anyone that would be interested in coming to find out what WIF does for the community. WIF does dinners, bake sales, the M. D. A. Easter Hunt (school), the Children's Christmas Party, the House Decorating Contest benefit, and serve firemen after or during fires. WIF gets help from the Fire Dept. and businesses for donations. The Frederic Hobby Club lets WIF use their building and they help on benefits held for the community. WIF is hoping to start working on simple craft for funds. Any ideas? Plans are being made for the Children's Christmas Party December 15. In addition this year any child up to 13 can make an ornament, and have a chance to win a prize in each age group. Plans are also started for the house decorating contest for Maple Forest and Frederic.

Six members enjoyed a night out for dinner at the Copper Kettle in Grayling. For more information about WIF call Eva Hulbert, 348-5189 or Anna Stoddard, 348-5585.

Scouts Collecting Food For Needy

As a member of the community, you hear about Boy Scouts and how they pledge the ideals of service to others and the community. And frequently you will see Scouts practicing these ideals in individual and unit service projects and good turns.

On November 10 and 17, the Boy Scouts of America's

National Council is coordinating a very special national good turn called "Scouting for Food."

The latest studies show that more than 20 million Americans including four million children go hungry at some time each month.

There are more hungry people in America now than at any time in the last 25 years. Throughout the nation on November 10, youth and adult volunteers from the Boy Scouts of America will distribute collection bags door to door. Then, on the following Saturday, November 17, the Scouts will collect their bags packed with non-perishable food.

Emphasis is on food needed for nutrition such as peanut butter, complete packaged meals, and canned goods, especially tuna, chunky soups, stews, meats, fruits, and vegetables. Locally, the Scouting for Food Good Turn will be done by Boy Scout Troop 979 and Cub Scout Pack 3993 of Grayling. Scouts and adult volunteers will be on the streets by 9 a.m. Saturday, November 10, to distribute the collection bags. Then the Scouts will be on the streets again the following Saturday to collect the bags with the food in them. The Boy Scouts will be easily recognized as they will be in uniform on both days of the campaign.

Food collected by the local Boy Scouts will then be turned over to the Michelson Memorial United Methodist and St. Mary's Food pantry. The food is then made available to those in need.

For more information on the Scouting for Food Good Turn, contact Scoutmaster Loren Goodale III at 348-9414.

Vikings Lose Play-Off Battle 20-19 JV Squad Adds 2 More Wins

The Grayling High School varsity football team came within 26 seconds of advancing to the second round of state play-off action last Saturday before falling to the Freeland Falcons, 20-19.

The score couldn't have been any closer, but, as GHS Head Coach Don Stowers said, "Close only counts in hand grenades, horseshoes and atom bombs."

The Vikings trailed, 12-0, throughout the first quarter. However, in the second period, GHS scored on a touchdown pass by senior punter Max Prosser. Prosser faked a punt and passed for 38 yards to senior halfback Mick McKinney, bringing the score to 12-6.

Coach Stowers said that Grayling had noticed in videos of the Falcons that they line up in punt formation with one man short in the middle. He predicted that "if we took our two slotbacks against their one defensive man, we might be able to beat them."

The situation for the Vikings to fake a punt and go for the TD arose when Grayling was behind 12-0. "We felt like we had to take a chance. We practiced it and planned it, and it worked. It gave us momentum going into the half."

The Vikings, in fact, dominated for most of the second half. In the third period, McKinney scored again on a nine-yard run. Senior quarterback Matt Branch kicked for the extra point, bringing GHS into the lead, 13-12.

"They were stuffing the ball," Stowers said. "But we managed to keep them out of the end zone in the third quarter. We took a lot of chances on defense. We put an extra guy to one side to blitz. Once they found out, they started running into our short side. Our only chance was to score."

In the second half, the Vikings mixed up their passing and running games. "We ran the triple option play into the Falcons' short side and once in a while ran over their guard to keep him honest."

In the fourth period, Branch made a key screen pass to McKinney for ten yards. Senior split-ends Scott Nicholas and Adam Mead caught a couple of key passes to keep the Viking drive alive. Sophomore halfback Gary Schroyer "caught one that really helped. The rest of the time we ran the ball," said Stowers.

In the fourth period with 3:40 minutes remaining, Grayling's efforts yielded a TD on a seven-yard run by McKinney. The crucial blow, however, said Coach Stowers, was that Freeland blocked the Vikings' extra point.

Grayling had decided to kick rather than attempt the two-point conversion because they were ahead and the probability of making a kick was better.

"Then the pressure was on them (Freeland)," said Stowers. "They don't have a kicker. The score would have been 20-12 (had the Vikings been successful). They would have had to score a touchdown and get the two-point conversion, which they'd already tried two times and failed at. We tried to do the right thing."

But, with 26 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter, the Falcons scored and beat the odds by making the two-point conversion. That brought the score to 20-19.

Freeland made their final drive through a combination of successful running and passing. And a 15-yard penalty against Grayling—giving FHS a first down on the Viking 30 yard line—led to the final TD.

GHS then received the kick and ran a couple of plays, winding up on the Freeland 40-yard line when the clock ran out.

"I felt like we had a tremendous effort in the game," said Stowers. "Afterward the players told me between tears that they had never felt so much pressure and intensity in their lives."

"I told them, 'Sometime in the future, who knows? You could be laying in some fox hole half-way around the world with shells breaking all around you, and the fact that you were here will help you.'"

"I'm proud. There were a lot of tough kids out there crying. That told me they had a big investment in the game. I had a few tears coming down my face, too."

Senior fullback Dana Mirate was leading rusher in the play-off game, with 109 yards in 25 carries. McKinney rushed for 45 yards on 13 carries. Schroyer made 21 yards on five carries. Branch had 20 yards on three carries.

Stowers said, "The reason they were hitting on Mickey so bad is because of the plays he runs off-tackle. They were waiting out there (for him)."

Quarterback Branch made 10 passes in 24 attempts for 135 yards. Although there were three interceptions, Stowers said, "Two of Branch's interceptions came from our receivers' letting the ball jump out of their hands."

McKinney gained 138 yards on seven pass receptions. Nicholas caught two for 28 yards. Mead caught one for 15, and Schroyer caught one for eight yards.

Prosser was the leading tackler with 12. Junior Mark Andrus and Branch followed with eight each. Junior Chris Lehti had seven.

The offensive line was really tough, said Stowers. "I'm particularly proud of 10th grader Jason Medler, who played the whole game at center."

Assistant Coach Mike Branch echoed Coach Stowers' sentiments. "Jason Medler played a strong game. He was given special pressure because of his inexperience. He's a reserve center who's still learning the system. Jason was put under fire and met the challenge when Todd (Thorsen) went down in the last game."

Continued Branch, "I felt very confident that the offensive linemen would do an exceptional job from the temper of the practices and the mood on game day. When you work with them all season, you can look them in the eye and see whether or not they are ready to go. And they were."

"They've been a stable group of players all year long and to pick one out over the others I can't do."

Coach Stowers said he wished the officials had been from a neutral place—"it would have been better for both teams."

"The team beat us fair and square, but we had some questionable calls. I feel bad that one time the officials warned them (Freeland) about the face mask penalty instead of calling it. That's kind of questionable."

Grayling Draws Bye In District Tournament

The Grayling High School girls varsity basketball team dropped a close game to Gladwin on November 1, losing 55-54.

Grayling led in the first quarter, 12-9; but fell behind in the second (25-22) and third (38-32) periods. The Vikings came back to outscore Gladwin in the fourth; but they fell just one basket short of a win.

Senior Heather Stephenson led the Viking scoring effort with 14 points. Senior Nikki Morrill followed with 11. Senior Lisa Jo Barber had nine. Senior Claudine Allen put in eight; and sophomore Elissa Cox made four.

Sophomores Heidi Craigie and Amy Vandecar scored their first buckets as varsity players. Craigie had two points and Vandecar, six.

They were transferred from the JV squad to complete the 1990 season with the varsity team, which has been plagued by injuries this year.

In the rebounding column, Morrill led with eight. Barber followed closely with seven, and Stephenson had four.

"Rebounding is one reason why we got beat," said Coach Howard Lehti. "We didn't do a very good job. We outscored them in the fourth quarter by 22-17—a lot of points by either team. But offensive rebounding was our downfall. We were getting one shot at the basket and that's not enough."

On the other side of the coin, the GHS free throw shooting was at 60 percent—an improvement over the first half of the season. "The fouls were close, said Coach Lehti. "It was a well-refed ball game."

Claudine Allen, who scored six points in the first quarter, was one reason why Grayling got off to a good start, said Lehti. Also, "Lisa Jo Barber did a nice job for us."

The Vikings defeated Gladwin, 56-55, in their first match-up this season.

A LEAGUE WIN

In conference action the next evening, the Vikings beat Whittemore-Prescott for the second time this season, by a score of 52-40.

Stephenson led the GHS scoring effort with 24 points. Morrill and junior Brenda Moshier had ten apiece; Cox made four; and Barber, junior Andrea Austin and Vandecar had two each.

In rebounding, Vandecar led the team with 14. "She did a nice job on the boards in her second varsity game," said Lehti. "One main reason why she was brought up is to give us more rebounding strength."

Moshier had 12 rebounds; Morrill, ten; and Stephenson, nine. Stephenson also had four assists.

Coach Lehti praised Heather Stephenson, who "dominated her person" in the man-to-man defense played by the Vikings.

She also "did a nice job driving to the basket and was the team leader on the floor. She was four for six on the free throw line—another nice job." She was at six for seven shooting in the fourth quarter alone and was at 60 percent in the overall ball game.

In spite of the win, though, "Grayling didn't go out and dominate," said Lehti. "We had 25 turnovers, one of our highest numbers all year."

"Normally, if you're in the 20 range, you will end up losing the ball game. We've usually been at 15 to 16 this season. In the Gladwin game (the night before), we had only 11 turnovers in a losing effort."

The victory over the W-P Cardinals assures Grayling at least 3rd place in the conference.

Lincoln-Alcona continues to hold 1st; Onaway is in 2nd; W-P, 4th; and Rogers City, 5th. Depending upon the outcomes of this week's games, Grayling could still advance in the rankings.

The Vikings stand at 4-3 in league play. Lehti said that the team has "great aspirations to finish 5-3, which would be a respectable showing for the first year in the new conference."

Referring to the 51-50 loss to Alcona earlier this season, he added, "We are one point from being tied for 1st place. We beat the 2nd place team once and played well against the 1st place team. They beat us by five at GHS and we lost by one there."

The Rogers City contest is tentatively scheduled for Friday, November 9. The game may be changed to Thursday, November 8, if the RCHS varsity football team has a play-off game Friday night.

In district tournament play, Roscommon (16-2) meets Houghton Lake (17-1) at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, November 12. That game will be followed by Whittemore-Prescott (6-12) against Lincoln-Alcona (16-2).

"But," he continued, "when they scored on us, the officials didn't carry the ball, didn't run the ball, didn't catch the ball."

He added, "The Freeland team, coach and crowd were very gracious in their victory."

Branch said that the GHS team "played an outstanding game and gave everything they had on the field. We have nothing to be ashamed of. We were the underdogs."

Agreed Stowers, "Physically, we didn't belong on the field with them."

The play-off game ends the most successful season that the Viking varsity football team has seen in years.

"The football program has been turned around here," said Branch. A key part was played by Don Stowers. The weight-lifting program he initiated has improved all athletes' performances—not just football players."

JV Squad Adds 2 More Wins

The Grayling High School girls junior varsity basketball team added another pair of victories to its 1990 season record, by defeating Gladwin and Whittemore-Prescott last week.

On November 1, the GHS JV squad beat Gladwin by a big margin, 58-24.

Every Viking scored in the Tuesday night contest. Freshman Jamie Andrus led with 14 points; freshman Darcie McCurdy made 11; and sophomores Heather Millikin and Sue Huss put in seven each.

Also scoring for Grayling were sophomores Sarah Micek and Valerie Schans, six apiece; freshman Mandee Micek, four; sophomore Jodi Denno, two; and sophomore Gina Lupp, one.

Darcie McCurdy, who made 17 rebounds, had an exceptional game, said Coach Dallas Hudson. "It was probably her best game this year. She controlled the boards for us."

Also Jamie Andrus had a great ball game on offense and defense, Hudson said.

The junior varsity team has one more conference game, against Rogers City, tentatively scheduled for November 9. (It may be changed to November 8, depending on the R.C. varsity football team's play-off schedule.) If Grayling wins that contest, they will be undefeated in the league.

"The girls are real 'up' for the game," said Hudson.

"They're looking forward to playing Rogers City."

JVS DEFEAT W-P

The opponents fared no better against the Vikings on November 2, when the GHS squad defeated Whittemore-Prescott, 57-28.

Schans was high scorer with 15. Millikin followed with 12. S. Micek had nine; McCurdy, seven; M. Micek, six; Andrus, five; and Lupp, three.

Jamie Andrus, one of the Vikings' most dependable rebounders, got into foul trouble early, said Coach Hudson. "So the rest of the team took over."

Schans led the Viking rebounding effort with 10. Millikin and McCurdy had eight apiece; and Andrus had seven.

Val Schans made two three-point shots, continued Hudson. "It was probably her best game of the year. Heather Millikin and Darcie McCurdy played real strong ball games, too."

In both contests, the JV squad was playing without the efforts of sophomores Heidi Craigie and Amy Vandecar, who were moved to the varsity team for the remainder of the season.

"I'm real pleased with the attitude of the girls I have on the JV team to continue their confidence after losing a couple of their best players," said Hudson. "They have dealt with it and are still doing an excellent job as a team."

Freshmen Girls Lose To Harrison

The Grayling High School freshman girls basketball team lost a close game, 34-31, to Harrison on October 29.

Jessica McClain was high scorer with seven points. She was followed by Heather Bindschattel with six. Michelle Sampsell, Amanda Bankert and Andrea Paulson made four points apiece.

"The girls played a real good ball game," said Coach Mark Hartman. "It was one of those that just slipped away. We outscored them in the second half, but we came up a little short."

LOSS TO MCBAIN JVS

On November 2, the 9th grade team was defeated by the McBain Northern Christian junior varsity squad, 45-27.

McClain again was high scorer with 13. Sue Lovely and Sampsell each had four points.

The Grayling freshmen were playing against a team composed mainly of sophomores, said Coach Hartman. "The girls did real well, considering their lack of height. McBain was a tall team."

"We had a slight disadvantage," he concluded, "but we got a little experience."

Sunglasses for Windows

"It's like putting sunglasses on a window," says David Biblar, about applying Llumar solar controlled window films.

The micro-thin, polyester-nylon films are virtually invisible when properly applied to existing windows.

"But the films block as much as 80% of the heat in summer and retains as much as 65% of the heat in the winter," says Biblar, co-owner of Quality Window Tinting in Traverse City, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo with his wife Judy.

Three types of films - reflective, non-reflective and Low E series are available, all of which virtually eliminate the ultra-violet rays which cause sun rot, fading and sun glare. These films are all covered by a 7 year warranty.

Quality Window Tinting also installs solar control film on motor homes and passenger vehicles. All installations come with a lifetime guarantee.

CMU Jazz Band Featured At GHS

On Thursday, November 15, 1990, at 7:30 p.m., the Central Michigan University Jazz Ensemble will appear in the Joseph Stripe Auditorium at Grayling High School. This is the second band featured in the Learning Through Music concert series. (Last month, approximately 300 music appreciators enjoyed an excellent performance by the U of M Flint Symphonic Band under the direction of Professor Gary Owens.)

Professor Jack Saunders, director of the Jazz Band at CMU has put together a lively program of familiar and not so familiar tunes for the jazz enthusiast.

The Central Michigan University Jazz Ensemble (Jazz Lab I) was first organized in 1956 and has since been a consistent winner in numerous jazz festivals including the National Intercollegiate Jazz Festival, the Aquinas College

Jazz Festival, the Central Ohio State Jazz Festival, the Notre Dame Jazz Festival, Musicfest U.S.A. (National Finals), the Montreux/Detroit Jazz Festival, and the Montreux International Jazz Festival held in Montreux, Switzerland, in both 1979 and 1988. The ensemble was invited to make its Carnegie Hall debut in New York City on the opening concert of "Jazz Cavalcade" on May 8, 1989. The ensemble also appears regularly as the guest jazz ensemble for the Midwestern Music Conference in Ann Arbor as well as having been selected to be the "house band" for the inaugural and 2nd Annual Cherry Bowl held in the Pontiac Silverdome. They have appeared in concert with such outstanding jazz soloists as Urbie Green, Tony Campise, Carl Fontana, Rich Matteson, Doc Severinsen, Bill Watrous, Bobby Shew, Jon Faddis, Phil

Woods, Gene Smith, and Pat LaBarbera. In addition, they perform numerous high school, college, and convention concerts through out the Midwest, and are one of the feature groups for the IMA-CMU Department of Music sponsored Jazz Week activities which annually feature competitions, clinics, and jazz concerts.

Tickets for this performance are available at the Community Education Office at Grayling High School or call 348-7641, ext. 27, to reserve your tickets.

Weyerhaeuser Helps Conservation Club

The Weyerhaeuser Grayling Plant has furnished the Camp Grayling Conservation Club with 55 sheets of sub-flooring Structurwood® for refurbishing its clubhouse.

Members of the club asked the company for the donation as they explained that the structure had been empty for some time and had been badly vandalized. When the building revamping has been completed it will serve as headquarters for the assembly of materials and construction of various small structures in connection with the club's good works projects.

Last spring the club developed over 300 birdhouse kits for the youngsters' first bird hatched contest. Members are presently working on funding to build a handicapped access pier on a local lake. The 16 foot sections of the structure will be built in the clubhouse basement.

Weyerhaeuser agreed to provide the material on the basis of the club's civic projects objectives. The four foot by eight foot sheets have an estimated value of $1,000.

Hey, I have a joke for you this week. Did you hear about the 4-H leader who stood out in the snow for an hour without a coat on? When she came inside she couldn't talk but boy could she chatter!

Attention! Announcement time. 1. Miss Amie Price was the winner of the 4-H puzzle and because of timing her picture and more information will have to come later. 2. A Performing Arts Club will be starting on November 20th. The new leader is Stacey Gay and she will look forward to a group of young people from grades 3rd-6th. For further information and registration, please contact Shelley Hubbard at the Cooperative Extension Office 348-2841, ext. 264. 3. The 4-H Leaders Recognition Night is slated for November 26th and will be held this year at the Michelson Memorial Church basement. It will be from 6:30-8:30 p.m. for all Leaders, Teen Leaders, and Volunteers.

Now, about the picture. Erin Scott and Kane Madsen are shown standing in front of some of the bird cages with various Finches and Parrots. Last spring a Rain Forest Program was put on by Leader Shirley Scott of the 4-H Cage Bird Club and Leader Kathy Madsen of the 4-H Nature Club. There were 25 different species from Finches to Macaws presented to the children at the Grayling Elementary School. Most of these birds can be found in the various rainforests throughout the world. The leaders explained the physical structures of birds and discussed their many unique features. Next they discussed the rainforests and the decline and destruction of these areas.

Shirley and Kathy showed the video "The Rainforest Rap" by the World Wildlife fund, courtesy of the 4-H office. The video showed many plants and animals that we are losing due to loss of habitat. They then discussed aviculture as a means of conservation and things each of us could do here at home to help. It was a wonderful program enjoyed by all and we look forward to seeing them again the next spring. Remember, the Cage Bird Club will be starting this month so be sure and get registered for another fun year with the birds.

Do you remember what the 4-H's are on the clover, the 4-H symbol? Head, Heart, Hands, Health. Have a fun 4-H day!

Miss Grayling Pageant Aims At Local Talent

If you are a Grayling High School Senior, and a young lady interested in representing your community for a year with the opportunity of earning a $1,000 College Scholarship, you should enter the 1991 Miss Grayling Pageant.

The Miss Grayling Pageant Committee is gearing up for the 1991 Miss Grayling Pageant to be held Saturday Night, January 12, 1990. The Pageant this year, according to Committee Co Chair, Deborah Allen, is "Getting back to the basics." For the last two years the Miss Grayling Pageant was franchised with the Miss Michigan/Miss America Pageant program. However, the Grayling Chapter of the American Business Women's Association, who is the sponsoring organization of the Pageant has decided that the franchise is not what attracts local girls to participate and therefore have decided to drop the franchise with Miss Michigan/Miss America.

The Miss Grayling Pageant Committee feels strongly that the Miss Grayling Pageant should be for "local" girls, who are Crawford County Residents and seniors at Grayling High School. Deb Allen, Co Chair of the Miss Grayling Pageant and a 1982 Miss Pennsylvania Pageant contestant assures, "We want to give our girls the opportunity to compete, but to not scare them away with the realization that they are forced to go on to larger Pageants. If they do, that's wonderful!"

This year's Miss Grayling Pageant will kick off with a musical salute to "Home Town USA." There will be a great deal of emphasis put on the girls knowledge of Crawford County attractions and activities during the Pageant interviews. Talent will still be a requirement, however, the bathing suit competition has been eliminated and will be replaced with a creative opportunity for the girls to represent their favorite activity in their "home town." The Pageant will conclude with the evening gown competition and the crowning of the new 1991 Miss Grayling.

Interested Grayling High School senior girls are encouraged to pick up the Miss Grayling Pageant entry forms in the high school office. The entry forms must be completed and returned to the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce Office by the Pageant deadline of Friday, November 23, 1990. For more information please call Deb Allen at the Chamber Office, 348-2921.

People Clean Up

People want to clean up so that we won't have a dirty earth. The way to help clean up this land is to make sure that you pick up all of your trash and throw them away where they belong. And if you don't then it will kill this earth and we will die also. But some things like metal, glass, and plastic, can be recycled which means melted down and they can be used again. But there is one thing I forgot, paper can be recycled as well as metal, glass, and plastic. So please start cleaning up after yourself. Thank you very very much.

16 GHS Students Selected For National Honor Society

Sixteen new members were inducted into the Grayling High School Chapter of the National Honor Society (NHS) on October 9.

Mr. Michael Dean, NHS Advisor, said that the basic qualification for NHS membership is a 3.5 or higher grade point average (G.P.A.).

Students who qualify are asked to complete an application answering three questions: 1) What leadership roles have you taken in school, church or community? 2) What services have you performed in school, church or community? and 3) Why do you want to be a member of NHS?

GHS teachers are then asked to evaluate each applicant on the qualities of character, service, scholarship and leadership. A screening committee, including teachers, administrators and counselors, is formed to study the applications and determine if each student qualifies.

On Tapping Day, October 2, the new inductees received letters and carnations welcoming them to NHS.

Students selected for membership in 1990 are: two seniors, Scott Hubbard and Heather Stephenson; 14 juniors, Adam Anger, Andrea Austin, Karen Febey, Karen Ferguson, Nathan Greer, Scott Hartman, Jeanne Hayes, Ellen Kulick, Chad Ormsbee, Kendra Palmer, Rachel Paulson, Aaron Raymond, Jordan Stancil and Angela Thompson.

The evening induction ceremony began with Mr. Carl Naghtin, Principal of GHS, welcoming the new members, family and friends. Mr. Dean then introduced the current senior members.

The NHS President, Kristen Walker, introduced four speakers -- senior Peter Oppermann, who spoke on character; senior Joell Schans, who advised the inductees on the priority of scholarship; senior Mike McMillan, who addressed the qualities of a leader; and senior David Teddy, who informed the audience about the necessity of service to the school and community.

Kristen welcomed the new members, who were called on stage to light a candle and say a pledge of dedication to the chapter. Mr. Naghtin and Mr. Dean then gave the members their certificates.

After the ceremony, punch and cookies were offered to the members and their guests in the cafeteria.

A discussion about student responsibility took place in our classroom and the following students submitted their paragraphs about student's responsibility for learning.

By Misty Burden
8th Grade

A student's responsibilities for learning are: 1) Bring your pen, paper, book, and etc. to class, 2) Be on time so you don't waste other people's time, 3) Listen when the teacher is talking, 4) If you don't understand, ask for help, and 5) Turn in all your work on time.

By Tom Balmes
8th Grade

A student depends on learning because he doesn't want to be stupid for the rest of his life. A student wants to get a good job, but a student must learn in order to do that. It is the student's responsibility to learn, because if he doesn't it will be his own fault.

By Tony Dobry
8th Grade

A student's responsibility is to listen well, ask sensible questions. Don't ask stupid questions. Student's responsibilities are to turn in their homework on time, and know what's going on at all times.

Brain Teaser

"Relationships are funny," remarked Bob. "Tom's the same relation to you that I am to your son."
"So he is," Charlie chuckled. "And you're the same relation to me that Tom is to you."
What relation was Charlie to Tom?

(Answer to last week's puzzle: Bill worked 2 days the previous month. Then 147 + 28.9 = 175.9 or 176, or 177. But 177 is not a whole number, so 147 + 28.9. Bill worked 176 days.)

GHS

Senior David Teddy handed in the following argumentative paper for an assignment in Persuasive and Research Writing, taught by Robert Woodland.

The purpose of this paper is to prove the point that the deforestation of our world's rain forests is destroying our environment. It is also endangering many species of animals and a precious ecosystem that exists in these rain forests.

The destruction of the world's rain forests is a pointless act which is damaging our environment in several different ways. The rain forests have been destroyed by many different procedures for many different reasons. Among them are slash and burn agriculture, timber extraction, mining, hydroelectric projects, clearing for plantation agriculture and cattle ranching, and expanding population. The biggest threat to the forests has been peasants in search of food, fuel, and land on which to start their farms.

Slash and burn agriculture is a process in which peasants cut down the rain forest trees and then burn the felled timber. Fires used to clear land for agriculture and ranching in the Amazon area "destroyed 30,000 square miles of virgin forests last year, an area the size of Maine." (Tye 1-4) "It is estimated that slash and burn agriculture destroys 74,000 acres of the world's rain forests every day, and 3,000 acres every hour." (Tye 1-4) This method of destroying the rain forests is one of the major contributors to the greenhouse effect.

The greenhouse effect is a term used to describe the global warming of the earth as a result of the depletion of the protective ozone shield. "Methane and nitrogen oxides are gases that help erode the ozone shield." (Guide 4-5) These two gases are released in great proportions by the slash and burn method of destroying the rain forests. "The most abundant gas emitted by the burning of the rain forest is carbon dioxide which collects in the earth's atmosphere and traps heat radiating from the earth, thus causing global temperatures to rise to dangerous levels." (Tye 1-4)

Deforestation accounts for 25-50% of all carbon dioxide emissions." (Tye 1-4) "The smoke from the many fires grew so thick at times last year that Porto Valho, the capital of the state of Rondonia, was forced to close its airport for days at a time." (Burning Jungle 92-103) The burning of the rainforests releases massive amounts of carbon dioxide, methane, and nitrogen oxides which all worsen the damage caused by the greenhouse effect. If we do not stop the peasants from burning the rain forest, further environmental damage will be imminent.

Tropical forests are known for their canopies of interlocking leaves and branches that shelter creatures below from sun and wind, and by their incredible variety of animal and plant life. (Burning Jungle 92-103) Nearly half of the world's animal species are found in rain forests. "Ninety percent of all primates live in rain forests." (Timber Group) and of the 227 species of primates on the planet, 113 are currently endangered, vulnerable, or rare. In Madagascar, the aye-aye, a nocturnal lemur, and the indri, are two endangered primates. Three endangered animals in South America are the muriqui, which is the largest monkey on the continent, the golden lion tamarin, and the white uakari. (Shapiro 165-168)

The forests are critical for the conservation of biological diversity. "In the Amazon, a single pond the size of a tennis court contains more species of fish than all the rivers of Europe combined. Rain forest cover only eight percent of the earth's land surface, yet at least seventy percent of the world's plants, insects, and animals live within their boundaries." (Shapiro 165-168)

"The river and forest system cover 2.7 million square miles in the Amazon. The Amazon meanders for 4,000 miles, second longest in the world. A 1982 United States National Academy of Science report estimated that a normal four square mile patch of rain forest may contain 750 species of trees, 125 kinds of mammals, 400 types of birds, 100 types of reptiles, and sixty species of amphibians. Also, each species of tree could support more than 400 insect species." (Burning Jungle 92-103)

If the current rate of deforestation continues, fifteen to twenty primate species could be extinct by the turn of the century. "Some international conservationists warn that such destruction could mean a mass extinction on a scale not yet seen since the time of dinosaurs." (Burning Jungle 92-103) If the forests vanish, so will more than one million species; a significant part of earth's biological diversity and genetic heritage. By protecting tropical forests, we are protecting most species of the planet.

Farmers and ranchers who burn down the forests to create space for crops and cattle ranches make the land valueless in the future. By burning the forests, a farmer provides the soil with a quick fix of nutrients and essential chemicals. This creates good farming soil for a couple of years, but within two to three years, the soil is no longer of any value and unable to grow good crops. This process robs soil already depleted by erosion and overuse. "Devastating floods in 1988 were aggravated by erosion created by the slash and burn deforestation method." (Tye 1-4)

One might argue that these peasants have no other place to go, and do not know how to make money or acquire food in any way other than by farming. This may be true, however, it is a fact that more money can be made by harvesting the forests rather than by cutting them down and planting crops. Slash and burn agriculture severely limits the long term use of the land for planting crops, harvesting the forests does not. For an assured yearly income for many, many years, a farmer is much better off to become a harvester or a rubber tree tapper. Harvesting the forests can produce a significant yearly income. "In 1989, five thousand people in the Peten produced a total combined income of $7,000,000.00 by harvesting the fruit, nuts, and berries, just to name a few." (Tye 1-4)

Countries of the endangered rain forests have to take more responsibility in the fight to save the rain forests. They should attempt to educate their citizens in ways of agriculture that will help the farmers to reap the benefits of the land to the best of their ability, but also to help save the land.

Unlike forests in the United States, rain forests can not be replanted. If we do not begin to stop the deforestation of the rain forests, valuable animals and resources could be destroyed. "The first third of Costa Rica's rain forest were destroyed over the course of four and one-half centuries, from 1500 to 1960. The next one third was destroyed in just three decades. At the current rate of deforestation, all rain forests everywhere in the world, will have vanished by the year 2050." (Dawidoff 84-98) "Guatemala is losing 222,000 acres every year, or two percent of its total, or 160,000 acres per year." (Tye 1-4) "Within five to ten years, Haiti and El Salvador will have no rain forests left." (Shapiro 165-168) These are startling facts which cannot be ignored. This topic has needed world wide attention for many years, and some countries are attempting to alleviate the problem.

"Some countries have recognized this growing problem. Guatemala has designated 20% of the country, or 3,000,000 acres in the Peten wilderness, as a government protected area." (Tye 1-4) Forty timber producing and consuming nations have decided to take their first practical steps toward saving the world's tropical rain forests. The timber organization, which includes 22 consuming countries and 18 producers, will administer the International Tropical Timber Agreement, a global commodity pact approved two years ago after ten years of debate. The agreement emphasizes research and market studies and is the only such pact with conservation as a chief aim. This agreement also brought progress in funding. It allocated $640,000 for preliminary work on projects ranging from market studies in Italy to broad programs of conservation in Asia, Africa, and Latin America, the three main producing regions." (Timber Group) Also, Brazil recently announced it will take steps to reverse its decade-long policy of encouraging deforestation after scientists reported more than 6,000 man-made fires burning in one day. (Tye 1-4)

Deforestation of the world's rain forests is a global problem. All countries must share the responsibility in stopping this needless destruction. The burning of the forests is endangering many species of animals, trees, and plant life. It is also helping to destroy our environment by being a major contributor to the greenhouse effect. A concentrated effort to educate the people in rain forest regions on alternative methods of farming and productive use of the land would be extremely helpful. This would reduce their need to rely on the slash and burn method of agriculture and ultimately reduce the deforestation rate of our rain forests tremendously.

Park Interpreter, Hartwick Pines State Park

The month of October has so far proven to be hectic and trying not only from a personal standpoint, but from what has been going on at the park.

Despite the rain we have been busy, especially on weekends, but not as busy attendance wise as we were for the same period last year. We suspect that this is due to the weekend weather patterns and the increasing cost of fuel.

I am sorry you missed the mystery trip sponsored by the "Friends" group. We had a great time, met some delightful people and had a glimpse of yesteryears. Where did we go? To find out accept our invitation the next time, as we will return to that place again in the future. Simply stated, we did not see all there was to see.

Like nature, we are preparing for the coming of winter.

The toilets in our unheated buildings are being winterized, the ski trails are being prepared and the wood pile continues to grow. This week will about end the special request from groups for guided tours until after the first of the year. If you are associated with the group, children or adults, it is never too late to call and schedule a guided tour. I even do them in the evening by light of kerosene lanterns.

Resource Review

Bruce Patrick Conservation Officer

A recent discussion with a friend of mine brought into focus a disturbing trend. His concern, and mine, revolves around the number of deer which are wounded, but not recovered, by bow hunters. As he stated, until ten or 15 years ago the bow hunting fraternity was fairly small, but made up of dedicated people. The archer would practice diligently to hone his or her skills, would study the deer and their habitat and would wait for the perfect shot to present itself. Once the deer was struck, a different set of skills would come into play. The ability to track and recover a wounded animal was every bit as important as getting a shot. If a hunter was unable to find a deer, he was almost ashamed to admit that fact to his peers. And this was during the period when hunters were allowed only one deer per calendar year, either with a bow or with a firearm.

Things seem to be different now, however. How many times have you heard someone say, "Well, I stuck another one yesterday?" Some people seem to brag about the number of deer they have wounded. As my friend said, it is almost as if you get a certain number of points for injuring a deer. Tracking is an unlearned art for many. It is difficult under the best conditions, but why would someone want to put an arrow into a deer on a rainy day when tracking would be impossible?

At a period when sport hunting is under increasing scrutiny, all hunters must act in a responsible manner. If you are a bow hunter, work at your sport. Practice, take only high percentage shots, learn how to follow a wounded animal, and don't give up. Upgrade your skill level to that of your predecessors.

Anti-hunting groups will target bow hunting when they are ready to make their big push. Don't give them anything they can use against you.

High winds will accompany the storm
With gusts of sixty miles an hour
Six and eight foot drifts will be common
As mother nature shows her power

The temperatures will be way down there
The wind chill factor really makes it bad
This will probably turn out to be
The worst storm we've ever had

We worry about how we'll survive
For we are sure to lose our power
Without electricity to run the furnace
The house will be freezing within an hour

We try to prepare the best we can
And sleep real uneasy Friday night
Worried about those who will be caught in the storm
We pray they will make it all right

We wake at dawn on Saturday morning
Without any sign of a storm
For after all of those predictions by Blizzard Bill
The day turns out clear and warm

Your Social Security

Community organizations in this area can play an important part in helping the Social Security Administration (SSA) identify people who may be eligible for benefits from the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program, or people who may need assistance in managing their own benefits.

Many people who could get SSI payments if they applied, have a physical or mental disability which keeps them from finding out about the SSI program, or applying for benefits themselves. SSI benefits can be paid to persons with limited income and resources, who are either 65 or older, or blind or disabled at any age, including young children.

Many disabled and elderly persons who may be eligible for SSI, depend heavily on community services. Community organizations which are in close contact with the people they serve are in a good position to help eligible people find out about SSI, and even to assist them in applying for benefits.

The Social Security Administration pays benefits through a representative payee to children under 18, or to adult beneficiaries who are not capable of managing their own benefits. Whenever possible, a close relative or a legal guardian is selected as payee. Representative payees must agree to use the benefits for the beneficiary's needs, and are required to account to SSA as to how the benefits were spent.

Community groups and organizations are often the first to identify a disabled or elderly beneficiary who is having difficulty managing his or her own benefits. Perhaps the organization also knows of someone who may be willing to serve as the individual's representative payee. When SSA is notified of the apparent need for a representative payee, we will first contact the beneficiary's physician for an opinion as to whether the person is capable of managing his/her own benefits. If the beneficiary does not need assistance, a representative payee will be selected. If there is no close relative (and no legal guardian), SSA may seek a volunteer to serve as payee.

Any community group interested in more information about SSI benefits, or in working with the Social Security Administration to identify beneficiaries who may need payees, or, who are interested in learning more about the volunteer representative payee program, should call SSA toll-free at 1-800-234-5772. Free literature is available, including "A Guide to SSI for Groups and Organizations" and "Your Duties As A Representative Payee."

The Traverse City Social Security office is located at 1111 E. Front St. Hours are 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, except national holidays.

Foster Grandparents Needed

The Foster Grandparent Program needs Senior Citizens who would like to work with children. The love that Seniors give through this program makes a big difference in the lives of many children. Foster Grandparents volunteer 20 hours per week working directly with children. They are paid a non-taxable stipend of $2.20 per hour, transportation expenses are reimbursed and a daily meal is provided. The stipend is not considered income and will not affect social security, public assistance, subsidized housing or other such programs. To be eligible for the program an applicant must be 60 years of age or older and have an income of less than $7,850 for a household of one, or have an income of less than $10,525 for a household of two persons.

The Program currently seeks volunteers in a variety of work settings in the Grayling area: Grayling Elementary School seeks Foster Grandparents to volunteer in their reading program and in other classrooms. Volunteers at the Crawford-AuSable Daycare spend their time with infants and toddlers. They comfort, rock, feed, and play with the children with supervision by daycare staff. Frederic Elementary uses Foster Grandparents with students from varied classrooms. Students benefit from tutoring assistance and from a loving caring person to be available when others are busy. River House Shelter can use foster Grandparents to give the children who pass through their home comfort and stability.

If you are interested in volunteering for the Foster Grandparent Program, please call 517-356-3474 or write to: Northeast Michigan Community Service Agency, Inc., Foster Grandparent Program, 2373 Gordon Road, Alpena, MI, 49707.

The love and time that a Foster Grandparent can give benefits these children with special needs. Foster Grandparents may be involved in play activities, tutoring, craft activities, and other areas of their interest that is helpful to children.

If you are interested in volunteering for the Foster Grandparent Program, please call 517-356-3474 or write to: Northeast Michigan Community Service Agency, Inc., Foster Grandparent Program, 2373 Gordon Road, Alpena, MI, 49707.

The Bible Speaks

From Calvary Baptist Church

Sex In The Humanist Manifesto

Because the Michigan Model deals more with the subject of sex than any other subject, and because sex is the primary moral issue used by humanism to undermine the Judeo-Christian values of our culture, we shall study the subject from the humanist's own words.

In Humanist Manifesto II under "The Individual" we read: "We reject all religious ideological, or moral codes that denigrate the individual, suppress freedom, dull intellect, dehumanize personality." "...The possibilities of individual freedom of choice exist in human life and should be increased."

"Sixth: In the area of sexuality, we believe that intolerant attitudes, often cultivated by orthodox religions and puritanical cultures, unduly repress sexual conduct. The right to birth control, abortion, and divorce should be recognized. While we do not approve of exploitive, denigrating forms of sexual expression, neither do we wish to prohibit, by law or social sanction, sexual behavior between consenting adults. The many varieties of sexual exploration should not in themselves be considered 'evil.' Without countenancing mindless permissiveness or unbridled promiscuity, a civilized society should be a tolerant one. Short of harming others or compelling them to do likewise, individuals should be permitted to express their sexual proclivities and pursue their life-styles as they desire. We wish to cultivate the development of a responsible attitude toward sexuality, in which humans are not exploited as sexual objects, and in which intimacy, sensitivity, respect, and honesty in interpersonal relations are encouraged. Moral education for children and adults is an important way of developing awareness and sexual maturity." A moral and/or immoral sex education of children is a planned goal of humanists.

Under "Ethics" we read: "We affirm that moral values derive their source from human experience. Ethics is autonomous and situational, needing no theological or ideological sanction. Ethics stem from human need and interest. To deny this distorts the whole basis of life. Human life has meaning because we create and develop our futures."

Judeo-Christian scriptures from God consistently teach chastity and moral purity as God's will, and beneficial to the family unit. All sex outside of a husband/wife marriage relationship is condemned by God as sinful and worthy of God's judgment. "Thou shalt not commit adultery." (Exodus 20:14). "Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived; neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind. Nor thieves nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God." (1 Cor. 6:9, 10).

CHURCH DIRECTORY

That We Might Be Free

Some were young, having never before left the security of home. Others were older, raising families and engaged in established occupations. Yet, each had a common denominator. All of those brave men and women put a halt to their lives as they knew them, left familiarly behind, and traveled to foreign shores, risking their lives to protect our concept of democracy. Inevitably, many died for this noble cause.

Each time we cast our ballot... every Sabbath as we worship in the church or synagogue of our choice... those instances when we might express a political opinion without fear of reprisal, let us remember the months and years sacrificed by our veterans as they defended and still defend the rights which we enjoy today.

As Veteran's Day approaches, may we honor the selfless men and women who have paid with a portion of their lives that ours might be free.

Christmas Tree Contest Started To Count Lights

Children from kindergarten through eighth grade will be starting up at Grayling's community Christmas tree during this holiday season, trying to guess how many lights are on the tree. Children guessing closest to the correct number will win four $25 U.S. Savings Bonds.

The contest is part of Grayling's Olde Tyme Christmas Celebration and is sponsored by Chemical Bank North. As sponsor, Chemical Bank North has donated the Christmas tree lights and will be presenting the savings bonds to the winners.

The huge fir in front of the children's playground next to the Crawford County Library will serve as this year's community Christmas tree.

Flyers containing more information and a contest entry form will be handed out in the Crawford AuSable Schools in mid-November.

The tree lighting ceremony will be held in conjunction with Santa's arrival in Grayling on Friday, November 23, at 7 p.m. Grayling's Olde Tyme Celebration has been coordinated by the Celebration of Lights Committee which consists of representation from the Grayling Promotional Association, Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce, Grayling Uptown Business Association, and Grayling Area Visitor's Council.

Red Cross Helps Contact Servicemen

If you are one of the many families awaiting word about a relative in the services, now is the time to turn to the Red Cross for current information. Many persons do not know that the Red Cross was originally founded in 1859 to provide communication, protection, and relief for the victims of war. At the Crawford County chapter, communication assistance is provided to all who are concerned about relatives or friends. If the chapter is unable to properly handle the communication, they know where to find someone who does.

A significant increase in communications has been noted since the crisis began in the Persian Gulf, or better known as Operation Desert Shield. When someone calls seeking information, or requesting to communicate with a person in the armed forces, the Red Cross is usually able to provide contact, especially during emergencies. The Red Cross' Service to Military Families and Veterans is one of the most important parts of Red Cross services, and because Grayling is the home of the Michigan National Guard, all communications between guardsmen and their families are handled when troops are stationed here for their training. For further information on SMF & V contacts, you may call at any time: 348-9806, 348-8348, 348-9745, or 348-5536.

In commemoration of the one-year anniversary (October 18, 1989) the Red Cross would again like to thank all who so generously contributed to the relief of the victims of the San Francisco earthquake, and the hurricanes on the Carolina coasts. Although over a year has now passed, the work of the American Red Cross continues; the May 1990 forest fire proved that your local chapter is prepared to help those in need. Red Cross is funded entirely by United Way here in Crawford County, and your continued, generous support is truly needed and appreciated.

Crawford AuSable Earns Bus Safety Award

The Crawford AuSable School District has earned honors for an outstanding school bus safety maintenance program, according to AAA Michigan.

The award will be presented at 11:30 a.m., Tuesday, November 20, at the Holiday Inn, 9285 M-55 in Houghton Lake, during the Central Michigan Traffic Safety Committee meeting.

Crawford AuSable earned a "Golden Wrench" award, which is given to school districts whose bus fleet is judged free of all safety-related defects for at least three consecutive years.

The awards are based on mandatory mechanical and structural inspections conducted by the Michigan State Police. The Michigan State Safety Commission and AAA Michigan began the awards program last year to honor school districts with excellent state inspection records.

Lovells News

The Lovells Extension Group met on Wednesday, October 10, with ten members present. Hostess was Kitty Pellegrini with Mildred Johnson and Marion Lively co-hosting.

The meeting was opened by Chairman, Carol Ralph. Roll call: "Something We Recycle In Our Homes." Anything we can reuse is that much less to go in the land fill.

We can help a great deal on the problem, in our own homes by recycling or reusing items.

Four of their members are planning to attend the MAEH State Convention November 7 and 8, at Port Huron, Michigan.

Marge Wright is the new Sunshine girl. Call her if you know someone who is ill or in the hospital.

Following the business meeting, Irene Honey gave the lesson on recycling. Discussion was also held on Styrofoam cups and other items that are not biodegradable.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Hazel Koernke on Wednesday, November 14. There will be a Bottle Auction and Learn and Lead reports are to be given. Notify the hostess if you are not able to attend.
